Pastor's Weavings

An old gnarled tree with a full and far reaching canopy of leaves is a place of wonder. Are we not to grow older and become like this kind of tree? Think of how as each year passes you can be a person for others to come to who are in need of shade and rest from the heat of the world's challenges.

Have you ever looked for such a tree in a park or on a hillside, or seen one in the distance as you drove by and wished you could run to it and tell it your story? I have. Those old growth cedar trees reveal intense spiritual virtues that I long to grow within myself; grace, gentleness, fortitude, wisdom, patience and beauty. We are meant to bear these fruits of the Holy Spirit and become a tree of life for others. Consider the whole of your life as a time of becoming a sacred tree. We are meant to become wise and gracious people others long to sit with and rest awhile with, so they can tell their stories and hear whispers of the Spirit quietly and surely emanating from ours hearts, like wind rustling in the leaves of an old oak tree on a hill.
